I request permission to use the library and the homeopathy archive of the Institute for the History of Medicine (IGM). I acknowledge that the mutual rights and obligations are governed by the Library and Archive User Regulations. In particular, when using library and archival materials, I will respect copyrights and the privacy rights of third parties (for example, patient records and other files relating to natural persons), and I undertake to anonymize personal information where necessary. I will provide the IGM with a copy of any publications (analog or digital) that are based substantially on the submitted library and archival materials, without being asked to do so and free of charge. When publishing reproduced archival materials or images that require permission, I will cite the IGM as the source in the caption or image credits. At the same time, I assume liability for any assistants working on my behalf.

I understand that the data provided in this application will be stored by the IGM for the purposes of library and archive use. This data will not be shared and will only be used in connection with the use of the facility.
